HINSDALE JUNIOR ACADEMY

EDITORIAL

Time waits for no one!
This is the law of life! Unalterable! Implacable!

So time passes by, leaving us stranded by the way, unnecessarily burdened down with our worries and cares,
real or hypothetical

And the academic year 1976-77 has jettisoned by into the void of infinity!
Never! Never to return!

On the other hand, we can gaze back with tender emotions that gently tug at our heartstring.

And the thoughts of the good times we have had take us back to

The carefree days of camps and field trips,

The relaxing hours of holidays,

The thrilling moments of sports,

The busy signals of daily assignments,

Capped with the quiet restful periods of worships!

Hence these pictorial pages!

To keep the ember of your reminiscence alive!

To throw another log in the fire of eternal recollections!

To rekindle the remembrance of

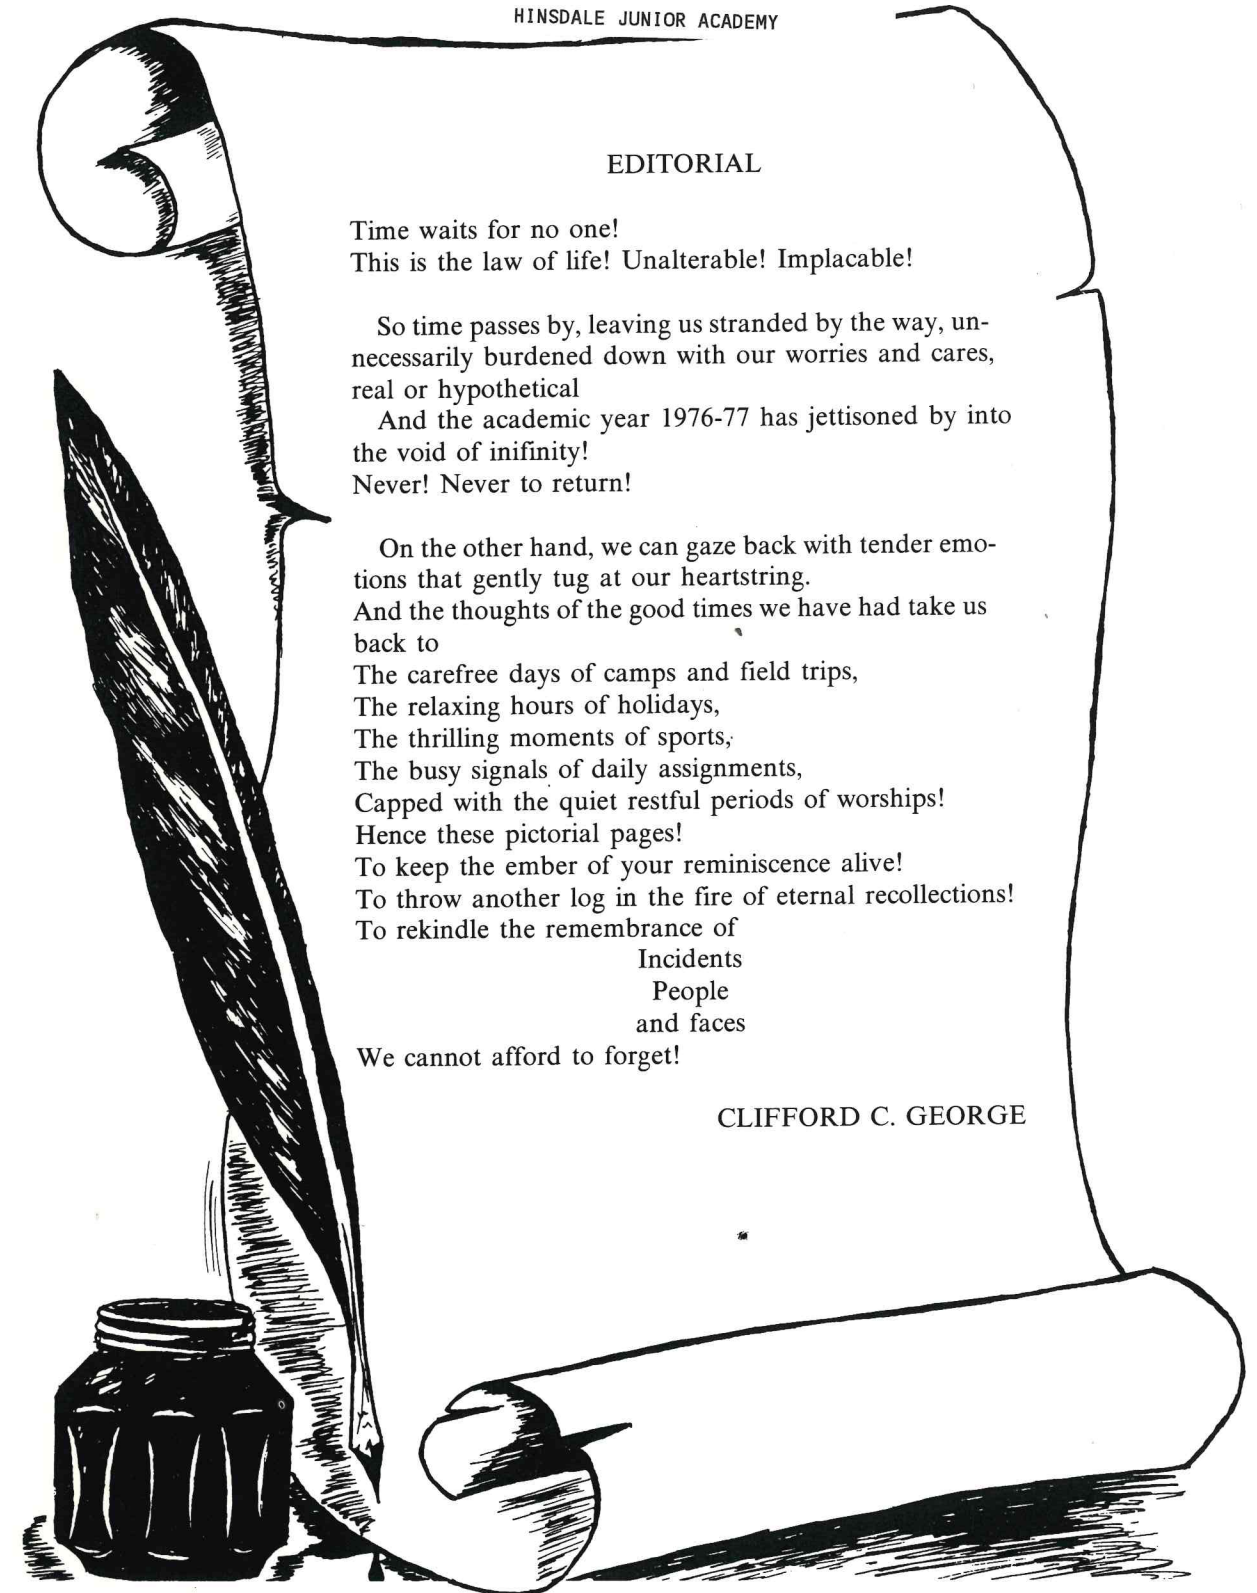

Incidents

People

and faces

We cannot afford to forget!

Broadview Academy

a co-educational boarding secondary school operated by the Illinois Conference of Seventh-day Adventists located five miles west of Geneva, Illinois

Due to rapidly expanding suburbs and immediate city surroundings of Chicago, the Illinois Conference sold the city property and buildings, and the Savage-Marydale farm near LaFox, Illinois was purchased for the site for the new academy.

Modern new buildings were constructed in 1958, and Broadview Academy continued but in a rural farming community. Since the original construction, the following buildings have been completed: gymnasium, additions on both boys' and girls' dormitories, chapel and music building, and in 1974 a new cafeteria-dining room complex was completed.
